Clifford Law Offices Interviews Showcased on CAN TV

Chicago Access Network Television will screen educational videos by personal injury law firm on Thursday August 21st, 2014.

CHICAGO, IL (August 2014) – Clifford Law Offices will be featured in an educational video series on Chicago Access Network Television (CAN-TV), a cable television service in Chicago. The three video interviews are intended to educate the Illinois community on legal subject matters and will broadcast on Thursday, August 21st, 2014 beginning at 8pm, Central Time.

One of the videos that will air on CAN-TV features partner and medical malpractice lawyer at Clifford Law Offices, Susan A. Capra who speaks about the various facets of medical malpractice, explaining the common types of medical malpractice, sharing what needs to be done if someone believes to be a victim, and describing the elements needed for a lawsuit to be filed.

Another video that will screen on Chicago's Access Network Television spotlights Clifford Law Offices attorney, Keith A. Hebeisen. In the legal educational interview, Hebeisen informs viewers on tort reform by explaining the history of it in Illinois State. He also describes who is affected by tort reform and what the average consumer can do about it.

The third instructive video titled, "When Personal Data Becomes Compromised" has the respected personal injury attorney, Shannon M. McNulty, who discusses how personal data is breached, what are the grounds to file a class action lawsuit, how to avoid it in the future, and more. This video will air on CAN-TV for the first time on August 21st while the other two videos have been featured on the Chicago television network previously.

The educational interviews, which were filmed by Clifford Law Offices, were created with the intention to educate the public on legal issues. "Our firm believes in educating our Illinois community on legal subject matters that we find important," says partner and founder of the Chicago law firm, Robert A. Clifford. He adds, "We are thankful for CAN-TV for providing us with a platform to do so."

These interviews will be featured on CAN-TV on Thursday, August 21st, 2014 starting at 8:00pm Central Time. Here are the screening times:

- When Personal Data Becomes Compromised with Shannon M. McNulty at 8:00pm CT
- What is Tort Reform? with Keith A. Hebeisen at 8:09pm CT
- Medical Malpractice with Susan A. Capra at 8:13pm CT

CAN-TV provides resources and channel time for Chicago residents and nonprofit groups. It has five local non-commercial channels that reach over one million viewers throughout Chicago.
